2. Introduction and objectives of Colegio EPI

Colegio EPI, the Community College of Aruba, at the Intermediate Professional/ Vocational level, has been set up to provide a better link between education at vocational level and the Aruban business community. A derived objective is to contribute to the development of a global education system in order to guarantee the link with developments elsewhere.

For that reason Colegio EPI strives towards cooperation with the whole community to meet the demands of professional preparation.

Every member of the community is entitled to the opportunity to (re)educate him or herself in a short time and in an effective way. Colegio EPI contributes to nation-building by offering quality education. Colegio EPI (mbo) promotes lifelong learning and looks for recognition from and is at the same time a link to local and international higher professional education.

The main focus of Colegio EPI is that every participant in the educational process will attain a strong personal and professional level of development. Colegio EPI produces professionals with an entry level qualification in the market.

The students are able to follow professional education at professional qualification level 3 and 4 in 14 different areas.

Evaluation is part of the process in view of the attainment levels.

From the point of view of excellence and to guarantee the quality there will be external evaluations by Examen Bureau Aruba (their expertise)

The attainment levels for this degree, will go through an evaluation/review cycle every 4 years. The Business Community is an integral part of this process. Society will also show certain trends that can lead to new areas in the professional education. The demand of the society will have to determine the supply/offer in the professional education.

The degree/diploma is proof that the candidate/student complies with the knowledge, skills and aspects required by Colegio EPI and the work-field.

Staff of Colegio EPI

3. The Professional Education in Aruba

In Aruba we provide vocational/professional education in the following areas and levels:

The classification of levels is as following (from low to high):

Classification Levels of Vocational/Professional Education in Aruba
Level 1 Occupational Assistant (assistant training) Level 2 Basic Professional (basic professional training) Level 3 Professional (vocational training) Level 4 Independent Professional (middle management training) Level 5 Bachelor Professional (college training) Level 6 Academic Professional (academic training)

This level classification is part of the WEB (Wet Educatie Beroepsonderwijs)

Level 1 and 2 apply to the EPB (Basic Professional Education)

Level 1: Occupational Assistant (simple tasks performance):
Works at the assistant occupational level of the labor force. This level describes job specific skills. These skills are directly related to the application of routines and standard procedures. The assistant is responsible for the execution of his/her own tasks. He/she does not carry any hierarchical responsibilities in the organization other than for his/her own job related tasks.
Level 2: Basic Professional (tasks performances):
Is the level of completion and further studies level of EPB. The completion level is focused on skills for the labor force. The further studies level, where the primary focused is placed on the so called "avo-vakken" (general subjects?), is directed towards continuing education system. At this level we deal with job specific skills. These skills are related to the application of routines and standard procedures. As compare to level 1, this level defines a higher quantity and complexity of routines and procedures. These demand a higher efficiency. The basic professional is responsible for the execution of his/her own tasks. He/She does not carry any hierarchical responsibilities in the organization other than for his/her own tasks. The basic professional possesses more job knowledge and skills, where she/he can be more useful and empowered in a specific job, and can handle more complex tasks as compared to the level 1 occupational assistant.

Level 3 and level 4 are applicable to the EPI (Intermediate Professional Education)

Level 3: Professional (independent performances of tasks):
Is focused on the labor market and the higher continuing education system. This level also describes job specific skills. The individual not only perform his/her own job specific tasks, but also assumes the responsibility of reporting such tasks to co-workers. The professional supervises and provides coaching to others in regards to the application of routines and procedures. He/She carries a clear hierarchical responsibility and frame of work. The individual must also possess the abilities to create procedures work planning and management.
Level 4: Independent Professional /Middle manager (completely independent performances of tasks with broad contribution abilities):
Is focused on the labor market and the higher continuing education system. This level requires the ability to perform a job independently, both at operational and strategic levels. The individual not only performs his/her own job specific tasks, but also assumes the responsibility of reporting such tasks to co-workers. At this level it has less to do with supervision and controlling of routines and procedures, but more with organizational skills and responsibilities. He/She carries a clear higher hierarchical responsibility and frame of work. The individual must also possess the abilities to create procedures for work planning and management.

Level 5: focuses on IPA (Teacher Training College/Faculty) and the Higher Professional Education: at the College/Faculty for Financial and Economics (FEF), the College/Faculty for Tourism Management and for the University of Law at the University of Aruba (UA).

Level 6: is the level of University Education:
In Aruba these are the Master Degree in the College/Faculty of Tourism Management and the Faculty of Law at the University of Aruba (UA).

To be able to look at all levels and see which area trains which profession creates a complete image of the study one has to complete to perform a specific task/profession. This will create a transparency in education and labor force.

1. Understanding Financial Statements.	1.1 explain what accounting is.	Accounting is an information system that identifies, records, and communicates the economic event of an organization to interested users.
	1.2 identify the users and uses of accounting information.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Managers uses the accounting information in planning, controlling, and evaluating business operations.</li> <li>• Investors (owners) decide whether to buy, hold, or sell their financial interest on the basis of accounting data.</li> <li>• Creditors (suppliers and bankers) evaluate the risks of granting credit or lending money on the basis of accounting information.</li> <li>• Others groups that use accounting information are taxing authorities, regulatory agencies, customers, labor unions, and economic planners.</li> </ul>
	1.3 explain why ethics is a fundamental business concept.	Ethics is the standard of conduct by which actions are judged as right or wrong. If you cannot depend on the honesty of the individuals you deal with, effective communication and economic activity would be impossible, and information would have no credibility.

	2.4 identify the basic assumptions used by accountants.	The major assumptions are: monetary unit, economic entity, time period, and going concern.
	2.5 identify the basic principles of accounting.	The major principles are revenue recognition, matching, full disclosure, and cost.
	2.6 identify the two constraints in accounting.	The major constraints are materiality and conservatism.
	2.7 explain the accounting principles used in international operations.	There are a few recognized worldwide accounting standards. The International Accounting Standards Committee (IASC), of which the United States is a member, is working to obtain conformity in international accounting practices.
	2.8 analyze the effects of business transactions on the basic accounting equation.	Each business transaction must have a dual effect on the accounting equation. For example, if an individual asset is increased, there must be a corresponding <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>decrease in another asset, or</li> <li>increase in a specific liability, or</li> <li>increase in stockholder's equity.</li> </ul>

3. The recording process.	3.1 explain what an account is and how it helps in the recording process.	An account is a record of increases and decreases in a specific asset, liability, and stockholder's equity items.
	3.2 define debits and credits and explain how they are used to record business transactions.	The terms debits and credits are synonymous with left and right. Assets, dividends and expenses are increased by debits and decreased by credits. Thus the normal balance for these accounts is debit. Liabilities, common stock, retained earnings, and revenues are increased by credits and decreased by debits. Thus the normal balance for these accounts is credit.

ACC 31-421	The student must be able to:
3. The recording process (continue)	3.3 identify the basic steps in the recording process.	The basic steps in the recording process are: 1) analyze each transaction in terms of its effects on the accounts, 2) enter the transaction information into a journal, 3) transfer the journal information to the appropriate accounts in the ledger.
	3.4 explain what a journal is and how it helps the recording process.	The initial accounting record of a transaction is entered in a journal before the data are entered in the accounts. A journal: a) discloses in one place the complete effects of a transaction, b) provides a chronological record of transactions, and c) prevents or locates errors because the debit and credit amounts for each entry can be readily compared.
	3.5 explain what a ledger is and how it helps the recording process.	The entire group of accounts maintained by a company is referred to as a ledger. The ledger keeps in one place all the information about changes in specific accounts balances.
	3.6 explain what posting is and how it helps the recording process.	Posting is the procedure of transferring journal entries to the ledger accounts. This phase of the recording process accumulated the effects of journalized transactions in the individual accounts.

3. The recording process (continue)	3.7 explain the purposes of a trial balance.	A trial balance is a list of accounts and their balances at a given time. Its primary purpose is to prove the equality of debits and credits after posting. A trial balance also uncovers errors in journalizing and posting and is useful in preparing financial statements.
4. Adjusting the Accounts	4.1 explain the time period assumption.	The time period assumption assumes that the economic life of a business can be divided into artificial time periods.
	4.2 explain the accrual basis of accounting.	Accrual-basis accounting means that events that change a company's financial statements are recorded in the periods in which the events occur, rather than in the periods in which the company receives or pays cash.
	4.3 explain why adjusting entries are needed.	Adjusting entries are made at the end of an accounting period. They ensure that revenues are recorded in the period in which they are earned and that expenses are recognized in the period in which they are incurred.
	4.4 identify the major types of adjusting entries.	The major types of adjusting entries are prepaid expenses, unearned revenues, accrued revenues, and accrued expenses.

4. Adjusting the Accounts (continue)	4.5 prepare adjusting entries for prepayments.	Prepayments are either prepaid expenses or unearned revenues. Adjusting entries for prepayments are required at the statement date to record the portion of the prepayments that represents the expense incurred or the revenue earned in the current accounting period.
	4.6 prepare adjusting entries for accruals.	Accruals are either accrued revenues or accrued expenses. Adjusting entries for accruals are required to record revenues earned and expenses incurred in the current accounting period that have not been recognized through daily entries.
	4.7 describe the nature and purpose of an adjusted trial balance.	An adjusted trial balance shows the balances of all accounts, including those that have been adjusted, at the end of an accounting period. Its purpose is to show the effects of all financial events that have occurred during the accounting period.
5. Completion of the accounting cycle.	5.1 prepare a worksheet.	The steps in preparing a work sheet are: a) prepare a trial balance on the worksheet, b) enter the adjustments in the adjustments columns, c) enter adjusted balances in the adjusted trial balance columns, d) extend adjusted trial balance amounts to appropriate financial statements columns, and e) total the statements columns, compute net income (or net loss), and complete the work sheet.

5. Completion of the accounting cycle (continue)	5.2 explain the process of closing the books.	Closing the books occurs at the end of an accounting period. The process is to journalize and post closing entries and then rule and balance all accounts. In closing the books, separate entries are made to close revenues and expenses to Income Summary, Income Summary to Retained Earnings, and Dividends to Retained Earnings. Only temporary accounts are closed.
	5.3 describe the content and purpose of a post-closing trial balance.	A post-closing trial balance contains the balances in permanent accounts that are carried forward to the next accounting period. The purpose of this trial balance is to prove the equality of these balances.
	5.4 state the required steps in the accounting cycle.	The required steps in the accounting cycle are: a) analyze business transactions, b) journalize the transactions, c) post to ledger accounts a) prepare a trial balance, b) journalize and post adjusting entries, c) prepare an adjusted trial balance, d) prepare financial statements, e) journalize and post closing entries, and f) prepare a post-closing trial balance.

One approach for determining the correcting entry is to compare the incorrect entry with the correct entry. After comparison, a correcting entry is made to correct the accounts. An alternative to a correcting entry is to reverse the incorrect entry and then prepare the correct entry.
	5.6 identify the sections of a classified balance sheet.	In a classified balance sheet, assets are classified as current assets, long-term investments, property plant and equipment, or intangibles. Liabilities are classified as either current or long term. There is also a owner's equity section, which varies with the form of business organization. The classified balance sheet can be presented in either report form of account form.

Comparative horizontal analysis is a technique for evaluating a series of data over a period of time to determine the increase or decrease that has taken place, expressed as either an amount or a percentage. Absolute change: shows the dollar change from one period to the next. Relative change: the absolute change expressed as a percentage.
	3.5 describe common-size vertical analysis and use it for balance sheets and income statements analysis.	Common-size vertical analysis is a technique that expresses each item within a financial statement in terms of a percentage or a relevant total or a base amount. Common size means that total assets have a value of 100% and the numerical value of each item being converted represents a part of total assets (same analysis is also applied for subsets of the balance sheets and other statements).

1.Operations Budgeting	1.1 explain the concept of budgeting and its purposes.	Part of the planning process. Business plan, usually expressed in monetary terms.
	1.2 describe some of the types of budgets.	Long-term vs. short-term Capital, operating, departmental, master Fixed vs. flexible,
	1.3 define the three purposes of budgeting.	Provide estimates of future sales revenues and expenses; Provide short- and long-term coordinated management policy; Provide control by comparing actual results with budgeted plans and to take corrective action, if necessary.
	1.4 briefly discuss some of the advantages of budgeting.	They involve participation of employees (motivation and communication); They require consideration of alternative courses of action; They provide a goal, standard of performance to be accomplished; They require forward-looking.
	1.5 list and briefly discuss each of the 5 steps in the budget cycle.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Establish attainable goals;</li> <li>• Plan to achieve these goals;</li> <li>• Analyze the differences between these goals and actual results;</li> <li>• Take any necessary corrective action;</li> <li>• Improve the effectiveness of budgeting.</li> </ul>

FIN 33-536	The student must be able to:
1. Operations Budgeting (continue)	1.6 prepare budgeted (pro forma) income statements, given appropriate information about estimated sales revenues and costs.
	1.7 discuss zero based budgeting (ZBB) with reference to the decision units and the ranking process.	ZBB is another method of forecasting and controlling. Each category of cost is broken down into decision units that are then analyzed. Management ranks all decisions and the final budget is allocated according to this ranking.
	1.8 use variance analysis to compare budgeted figures with actual results.	The differences are broken down into price and sales volume variances when analyzing sales revenue figures or cost and quantity variances when analyzing expense figures.
	1.9 use mathematical techniques in forecasting.	Moving average, regression analysis
2. Statement of Cash Flows (SCF) and Working Capital (WC) Analysis.	2.1 define the purpose and use of the Statement of Cash Flows.	It converts the accrual net income (or net loss) to a cash basis. The conversion process identify sources and uses of cash, and is commonly used to evaluate the liquidity and solvency of a business entity.
	2.2 prepare and/or explain the Statement of Cash Flows. Three sections: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Operating activities</li> <li>• Investing activities</li> <li>• Financing activities</li> </ul>	Three sections: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Operating activities (major operating accounts, current assets and liabilities)</li> <li>• Investing activities (acquisition/sale of investments)</li> <li>• Financing activities (ownership equity, debt)</li> </ul>

2. Statement of Cash Flows (SCF) and Working Capital (WC) Analysis (continue)	2.3 define working capital and the purpose of the Statement of changes to Working Capital.	Current Assets – Current Liabilities
	2.4 prepare the Statement of changes to Working Capital (thereby identifying the net change to working capital).	Sources and uses Inflows / Outflows
3. Cash Management	3.1 explain the importance of cash planning, and state the two main purposes of cash Budgeting.	To project surpluses and shortages of cash. Net income on income statement is not necessarily indicative of the amount of cash on hand.
	3.2 prepare a Cash Budget.	List items that would appear under cash receipts and cash disbursements on a cash budget, and with the appropriate additional information, prepare a Cash Budget
	3.3 explain different concepts and terms related to cash budgeting, and procedures used to minimize accounts receivable.	Bank float, concentration or integrated banking, lock boxes
	3.4 prepare a Schedule of Aging of Accounts Receivable.	This aging chart shows if outstanding receivables are getting older. Collection procedures may need to be improved. Also used to estimate which accounts will not be collectible (bad debt)
	3.5 discuss the importance of marketable securities with reference to surplus cash funds.	A surplus of cash that will only be available for a short period can be invested in marketable securities.
	3.6 explain long-term cash flow budgeting, and use CVP to calculate the sales revenue required to provide a desired cash flow amount.	Cost-Volume-Profit analysis is used to calculate how much sales revenues are needed to produce various levels of cash flow.
4. Capital Budgeting and the Investment Decision	4.1 discuss the ways in which long-term asset management differs from day-to-day budgeting.	Long life of assets (spread of benefits); costs of assets (outlay of large sums); future costs and benefits (maintenance costs, value at end of economic life)

4. Capital Budgeting and the Investment Decision (continue)	4.2 list a variety of techniques/tools used in capital budgeting and investment decisions.	1 Accounting Rate of Return (ARR) 2 Payback period 3 Net Present Value (NPV) 4 Internal Rate of Return (IRR)
	4.3 explain how the Accounting Rate of Return (ARR) is calculated and explain the advantages and disadvantages of this method.	The ARR (also called the average rate of return) compares the average annual net income (after taxes) resulting from the investment with the average investment.  $\text{ARR} = \frac{\text{Net annual saving}}{\text{Average investment}}$
	4.4 explain how the Payback Period is calculated and explain the advantages and disadvantages of this method.	The payback method compares the initial investment with the annual cash inflows:  $\text{Payb. Period} = \frac{\text{Initial investment}}{\text{Net annual cash savings}}$
	4.5 discuss the concept of time value of money and explain the term "discounted cash flows".	Reverse of compounding interest.
	4.6 use discounted cash flow tables in conjunction with the Net Present Value (NPV) to make investment decisions.	The initial investment is deducted from the total present value of future cash flows.
	4.7 use discounted cash flow tables in conjunction with the Internal Rate of Return (IRR) method to make investment decisions.	Determine the rate of interest that will equate the total future discounted cash inflows with the initial investment. This rate is compared with the minimum desired return of the company.

4. Capital Budgeting and the Investment Decision (continue)	4.8 contrast the NPV and IRR methods and explain how they can give conflicting rankings of investment proposals.	Applying these two methods for the same situation and studying the results.
	4.9 solve problems relating to the purchase versus the leasing of fixed assets.	On one hand, lease payments are generally tax deductible, so there can be an advantage in leasing. On the other hand ownership permits deduction for tax purposes of both depreciation and the interest expense on any debt financing of the purchase.
5. Feasibility Studies	5.1 discuss the value of a feasibility study and the information included in its nonfinancial sections.	A feasibility study is an in-depth analysis of the financial feasibility of a property expansion or a new property development. It can not guarantee financial success, but it does reduce much of the guesswork and risk of a new venture.
	5.2 list and discuss the four (4) steps in hotel room supply and demand analysis.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Calculate the most recent 12-month average occupancy of the most competitive hotels;</li> <li>• Calculate the composite growth of demand from the various sources;</li> <li>• Calculate the additional rooms required year by year</li> <li>• Calculate the future supply of rooms required.</li> </ul>
